

SAN DIEGO MESA COLLEGE

ePortfolios

Preparing Students for Success

This training will highlight how ePortfolios are being used to enhance and add value to both the student and faculty experience.

The presenters will demonstrate how the reflection and development of the various components – such as personal mission statement, goals, internship and field experience and academic body of work ultimately prepare students for future success in college and the work place. Participants will learn what it takes to create an ePortfolio as well as how our campus can support students, as they create them.

Come with a letter welcoming students to your class or a portfolio assignment that you would like to adapt, and be prepared to create your own ePortfolio!

Tiffany Ingle

Tiffany Ingle has been a part of the College 1 (First Year Experience Course) team at Pasadena City College (PCC). Tiffany wrote a model course used to mentor new College 1 professors. Since College 1 requires students to develop an ePortfolio, Tiffany developed an assignment website that models the ePortfolio to students and provides professional learning about using ePortfolios.

Arkova M. Scott

Arkova Scott works as an Instructional Designer/Center Technician at Pasadena City College (PCC). She has used ePortfolios as an assessment tool with various other multimedia software platforms to develop programs with personal design. She works with faculty and tutors to design workshops, especially for under-represented students and students-at-risk.
