LEARNING

Development is now Learning

“Developing is not enough. Educators must be knowledgeable and wise. They must know enough in order to change. They must change in order to get different results. They must become learners, and they must be self-developing.”

From Professional Development To Professional Learning, Brown Eaton, L.

Purpose Remains the Same

- Support the work of other campus groups with their professional learning activities.
- Oversee the use of professional learning fiscal resources.
- Oversee the use of The LOFT.
- Evaluate professional learning activities conducted during the year and an outcomes report to the campus.
- Guide the work of sub-committees
