

Mesa Pathways Fellows

Club Rush ACP Event

During Club Rush, the Pathways Fellows had the opportunity to connect with students and inform them about the upcoming implementation of Academic and Career Pathways and explain how these are groups created based on your major and career. We got many students to sign up to learn and get more information about Academic and Career Pathways, and we have begun reaching out to them. See our TikTok.

Student Leadership Summit

For October's Student Leadership Summit, we focused on creating media and collaborating with DSPS to destigmatize services for students with disabilities. Thanks to Brianne Kennedy, Mesa's DSPS counselor who presented. We recorded the presentation that can now be used across the campus and shared with students.

Mesa Online Success Team: Onramp to Online Learning Project

We have been in full throttle creating and adding great information into the Onramp to Online Learning Canvas shell. The Fellows have recently been focused on the time management module with a focus on procrastination; something students cited as a problem in a survey of 3,499 online students. We want to show students that it's completely normal and to learn how to overcome it based on each student's different learning style. We added playlist for videos that help further explain it and added some helpful apps that can help students stay focused. We are preparing for a tentative pilot launch in January.

Student Stories

Take a look at our Student Stories playlist where we summarize students' responses to each question. We recently interviewed two new students – Kristien and Daniella (in-progress) and are about to interview Guille. We will begin doing some interviews in audio-only/podcast form for those students who want to share but don't want to be on camera.

Goodbyes: This month, we gave our farewells to Pathways Fellow Logan Spann who has accepted a professional position. During his time as a Fellow, he applied his experience as a student veteran to projects in collaboration with Mesa's Veterans Center to better assist those transitioning from the military to college. He also reported student engagement on our different social media platforms and emphasized Mesa's Student Veteran Services in discussions with other student leaders. Logan is a star who will be missed!
